

HIT THE BOOKS

"I will study and get ready and perhaps my chance will come " _That's what Abraham Lincoln said.

Study

Wisdom is like a cold; you get it from someone. History has given us something positive; the knowledge of thousands printed in books and magazines. If you want to expand your mind, mind your reading. Hit the books .Your study habits will, to a great degree, determine your path to success. For some, studying is a breeze. For others, it's a hurricane. You may be somewhere in-between. But know this: you have to work at it .You have to discipline yourself to learn.

Study doesn't just come in spans of four years or twelve. It is a lifelong commitment. Every area of your life will demand wisdom that you don't already have.

You will study to earn a degree

You will study to get a job [or keep it]

You will study to improve your relationships

You will study to know God more

So study well, set a time, choose a place. Zero in, assemble resources, keep notes Discipline your efforts

Hit the books before you hit the bricks!

Keep climbing:

"We advance on our journey only when we face our goal, when we are confident and believe we are going to win out"- by Orison Swett Marden

Advancement

Education isn't the last step. It's the first. Where you go from here depends on what you are willing to do. If you determine in your heart that you are on the path to personal success, you are on the right road. Making the best of it, and making the best out of it represent the low road and the high road of life.Take the high road. Keep climbing. No matter what obstacles you may face, keep going. Don't be afraid to do more work. Make the best out of life.

Keep climbing academically. Now you know how to study. You know what it takes to make good grades. You know what it takes to make progress by gaining knowledge. Take it to the next level. If you are a high school graduate, advance to college graduate. If you are a college graduate, advance to a degree graduate.

Keep climbing professionally. Whether it's your first day on the job or it's your first opportunity for a promotion, keep climbing

Keep your skills fresh;

Stay alert to trends;

Watch others; copy the best of the best, don't copy the wrong

Remember; your stepping stone was someone else's obstacle. So keep shining keep advancing. Life is too short to stagnate and be miserable. Have self-motivation, have a positive attitude

By CECILIA W. KANINI- Student Bachelor in Co-operative Business

Co-operative university College of Kenya